Dear colleagues:

The annual Dallas Regional Science and Engineering Fair will be held again this year on February 19, and our AHMP Chapter will be participating with an award for the best project that incorporates the use of hazardous materials in its preparation or deals directly with any hazardous materials, and that demonstrates admirable responsible handling of such on the part of the student who created the project. The winner will receive $100 and a plaque of recognition.

We encourage you to enroll as a Special Awards Judge. Since the fair must be conducted virtually this year, the judging must be conducted virtually, also. For specific information on how this will be done, please read Kristine Riley's instructions which I have copied and pasted below. I will send more information as I get it.

We would like to invite DFW Chapter of Hazardous Materials Managers, Inc. to participate as a Special Award donor for the 2021 Virtual Beal Bank Dallas Regional Science & Engineering Fair. The fair will take place February 19-21, 2021 on Zoom.

Our plan is to send your judges a document with the student's project number, category and abstract for your review. Then you will be given the option to choose your winners from this information or send us the information for the top 5 students you wish to interview for your awards.

Special Award judging is scheduled to take place via Zoom on Friday, February 19th from 4:00 to 6:00 pm.

Please respond to this email with your intention to offer Special Awards at this year's fair by returning the attached Prize Form with any edits to your information or awards and your judge option selected.

Your judge information and payments are due by February 8, 2021 and your actual prizes are due by February 17th.

We are currently working on a plan to hold a safe celebration for student winners. While we won't be able to hold the traditional Awards Banquet lunch, we are planning to hand out awards in person.

If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to contact us at DRSEFJudge@smu.edu or 214-768-2070.
